Environmental Sciences, Social Sciences, and Humanities in a Time of Crisis

Friday, February 28th
9:30 AM – 4:00 PM
Trayes Hall, Room A
Douglass Student Center
100 George Street
Douglass Campus
New Brunswick, NJ 08901

A Strategic Workshop co-sponsored by the Office of Research and Innovation, the Rutgers Climate Institute, and the Center for Cultural Analysis will gather faculty from across the many schools and departments at Rutgers, New Brunswick to chart a future for integrated research and teaching among the Environmental Sciences, Social Sciences, and Humanities on campus. Four roundtables will canvass four major areas of inquiry:

- Modeling Change Over Time
- Industrial Landscapes
- Food and Water
- Communication, Science, and Climate

The afternoon will include brainstorming sessions on grants, collaborative research projects, co-teaching and curricular innovation, and ideas for public events. The agenda will feature faculty from the School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Communication and Information, the School of Environmental and Biological Sciences, the Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy, and the Mason Gross School of the Arts.
